OUR CHILDREN & SIBLINGS LOVED, SADLY MISSED AND REMEMBERED

Each month some of us must face those special, but difficult days of birthdays and anniversaries. This Month we ask your thoughts and prayers for the parents/siblings/relatives of the following children:

SHARED THOUGHTS ON A PAIN THAT SPRING CAN'T FIX

Sometimes spring can make us feel even more depressed, we often begin with our shoulds, oughts, and time frames. In past winters, when we were suffering from cabin fever we looked to spring to motivate us. Many non-bereaved will even tell us, we should feel better for spring is here. Or, we ought to get out more, now that the weather is nice. We sometimes put more guilt on ourselves, when we are depressed on a glorious day. A gloomy day can be more comfortable, for we feel our spirits don't have to rise to meet our surroundings. The grief we are enduring is probably the greatest pain we will ever know.

Seasonal changes frequently have an opposite effect than they used to have on us, the changes can close a time frame that we had set to reach a certain goal in our grief. When our expectations have not been met it lowers our self-esteem. We are frequently our own worst enemy, when it comes to putting impossible expectations on ourselves. I believe our creator put earth's beauty here for us. But when our pain is so great, it is difficult to enjoy its beauty, we should not feel guilt for lack of appreciation. When in the depth of despair, it is hard to feel good about anything. Grief is not curable, but the pain will soften, and we will one day feel better (I could not believe this in my early grief). The road to healing is very long, but it is not endless, as it may now seem.

The evolution of progress will have many setbacks, even though we are having a long-term positive trend of healing, it is often hard to see progress. We never understand why our child died, and it is never over, but we can become functional human beings again. We must first do our grieving, for that is when the healing takes place. Our grief causes us to face reality and imagine our future without our loved one. As painful as this is, we must go through it, we can not go around it. We need to let go of our shoulds, oughts, and time frames, and take one step at a time. But we need to get a good foothold, before moving on. Putting something behind us too early can cause us to deny, and not acknowledge the loss. Grief can't be rushed. Most of all, we must have hope, that is the light at the end of the tunnel.

My pain has healed so I can work, play, and enjoy family and friends again. When I think of Douglas, my pain is no longer intense and gut wrenching. It most often is fond memories that I love to share with others. I do have a need to speak of my child, but not so extensively. We at The Compassionate Friends, have come to know each other's child through our sharing.

As I look forward to spring, with great anticipation, it makes me realize how much we can overcome, and that grief doesn't have to dominate the rest of our life. We can lead productive and wholesome lives again. It takes a lot of patience, hard work, and prayers to find happiness again. I hope you will not try this hard road alone. The Compassionate Friends can lighten your path.

God Bless, Marie Hofmockel , TCF Valley Forge

By my helping I will be helped
If I accept your anger then my anger is accepted.
By my caring I am cared for.
When I listen I will be listened to.
And all these things mean
On the lonely road of grief I will not be alone.
My recovery will be a little gentler,

And my child will not be forgotten
Because the memory of him can be shared With you who understand how I feel --
My special Compassionate Friends

PLEASE ASK

Someone asked me about you today,
It's been so long since anyone has done that.
It felt so good to talk about you
...to share my memories of you
...to simply say your name out loud.
She asked me if I minded talking about what happened to you or would it be too painful to speak of it.
I told her I think of it everyday and speaking about it helps me to release the tormented thoughts whirling around in my head.
She said she never realized the pain would last this long
She apologized for not asking sooner.
I told her, "Thanks for asking."
I don't know if it was curiosity or concern that made her ask,
but I told her,
Please do it again sometime soon."

SILENT GRIEF

Grief is sometimes silent – like snowflakes falling on a dark winter's night – but never peaceful or serene or pretty like the pure white snow. When grief is silent, the tears seem to turn to ice, like the snowflakes, before they reach our eyes.

Grief is sometimes raging – like a monstrous thunderstorm – with all its fury and bolts of lightning striking our hearts at every angle.
When grief is raging, the tears come in torrents, like the rain, and flood our soul.

Grief, whether it be silent or raging - hurts.

SO YOU WANT TO UNDERSTAND

You say to me, "It's been a year, when will your grieving end?"
Why can't you be like you once were my smiling happy friend?

If you really want an answer, though I wonder if you do,
I'll take you deep inside me, where sadness dims the view.

First, my "friend", for your sake, come close and take my hand.
And we will pray that what I share, you won't have to understand.

The me you once knew is no more, it died with my child.
A voice was stilled forever, yet, the echo drives me wild.

You say you lost Aunt Bertha, so you have known death too, Aunt Bertha, however, was not your child, and she was eighty, not twenty-two.

I barely survived those first months, coping was a dreadful task,
I'd tell you I was fine, while sobbing behind my mask.

If I talked about my precious child, you turned away in fear,
You couldn't stand to see me cry, nor would you share my tears.

I wanted to speak of him, please, won't you say his name?
But, you pretend he never was, so he died over and over again.

Oh, I see that you're uncomfortable, you no longer want my hand,
So as it was before we talked, my "friend," you don't want to understand!

Flowing more gently
My "River of Tears"
It's banks holding grief of nine long years.

Ripples of memories
so many kind
In my heart they are always - "I Find".

Memories of kissing away childhood hurt Praying life's pitfalls
you would avert.

You chose to leave your sadness on earth
For Heaven's peace and Eternal Rebirth.

COMPASSIONATE SIBLINGS

I had a prayer answered today, one I'd like to share.
 I found I'm not alone in my grief, I found someone to care!
 I've been in pain for quite awhile, but kept it deep inside.
 But now I know there are people in whom I can confide!

They'll let me cry or scream or yell,
 and they know just how I feel;
 You see they also know that pain, and know it's very real.
 Each one has suffered a loss, one like I have known;
 Yet now we stand together.
 This unique group of siblings is bonded,
 you might say,
 And strength to carry on is for what each one must pray.

One by one we keep going, although painful it might be,
 And the emptiness we feel, many will never see;
 Because we choose what face to show the world and courage keeps us going.
 We have a constant ache inside,
 No matter what the outside is showing.

And whether it takes me a year or two,
 Time is all that can heal;
 So I've been sent some "Compassionate Siblings"
 Who know just how I feel.

Bless those who need to be understood
 When tears come and go without warning.
 May we help heal the wounds so deep that are hurting all the hearts left empty by the death of a sibling.

MOST PEOPLE WHO SUFFER A LOSS EXPERIENCE ONE OR MORE OF THE FOLLOWING:

- * Feel tightness in the throat or heaviness in the chest.
- * Have an empty feeling in their stomach and lose their appetite.
- * Feel guilty at times and angry at other times.
- * Feel restless and look for activity but find it difficult to concentrate.
- * Sense the loved one's presence, as in finding themselves expecting the person to walk in the door at the usual time, hearing their voice, or seeing their face.
- * Wander aimlessly, forget, and don't finish things they have started.
- * Have difficulty sleeping; dream of their loved one.
- * Experience an intense preoccupation with the life of the deceased.
- * Assume mannerisms or traits of their loved one.
- * Feel guilty or angry over things that happened or didn't happen in the relationship with the deceased .
- * Feel their mood change over the slightest things.
- * Cry at unexpected times.

All of these are natural and normal grief responses. It is important to cry and talk with people when you need to do so. By learning about the process of grief and learning also to express our feelings concerning our experience, we are helped to arrive at a healthy readjustment of our lives and a reinvestment of our emotional energy.

THANK YOU REV. SIMON STEPHENS AND TCF FOR:

TENDER

- (1) HOPE - when I believed in none anywhere.
- (2) REASSURANCE - I'm not "crazy"! Confusion, displacement, preoccupation, forgetfulness, timelessness, panic, my journeys into HELL - all part of "normal" parental grieving. OK to feel and express feeling, or remain silent.
- (3) ENERGY - An infusion via newsletters, a note or phone call when I'm exhausted, depleted, flat, not able and not caring to function.
- (4) UNDERSTANDING - my bitterness and rage, there by miraculously reducing both.
- (5) CONTINUING GENTLE REMINDER - to accept that most despairing of facts - MY CHILD DIED!
- (6) WATCHFULNESS - Strive not to get stuck in denial, anger, etc. My child would not want this for me.
- (7) RESPIRE - a release of tension from desperately "holding myself together".
- (8) COMPASSION - " I know your pain". TCF members truly do.

COMFORTING

- (9) FORGIVENESS OF SELF - for real and imagined commissions and omissions as I'm forced to review my life, accept my humanity.
- (10) LOVE - doesn't die. My significant others do not replace my child but do expand my caring.
- (11) SELF ESTEEM - Slow rebuilding of a DESTROYED SELF. I will be worthwhile again and able to help others someday.
- (12) AWARENESS - I AM BLESSED - My child lived and we loved.
- (13) FAITH - My child, and your child, is in another dimension in PEACE and LOVE.

FRIENDSHIP

- (14) SHARING - I'm not alone. In my stark despair, others reach out or will reach out. Grief is very personal, but others are in a parallel lane.
- (15) ENCOURAGEMENT - I'll fall back but I'll move forward again.
- (16) PATIENCE - First with myself, then with others; only TIME, TIME, TIME can dull this agony.
- (17) REFUTES - my desire for and attempts at isolation.
- (18) ACCEPTANCE - I'm a DIFFERENT SELF FOREVER -the death of my child was the death of so much of me.
- (19) HUMOR - can again be part of me despite the underlying devastation, the never ending awareness of this most searing, irreplaceable loss. My child smiles with me.
- (20) THANK YOU - TCF LEADERS for giving so much of yourselves, for all your work behind the scenes.

THE COMPASSIONATE FRIENDS " CHILD"

Who is "the child"
of Compassionate Friends?
Who knows that secret being of many beings, that life of many lives?
Entity of love,
united hearts in pain,
Bringing hope to the hopeless, relief to the morning-weary.
Your passing, unwanted transition, from here to untouchable eternity, Plunging lives into despair - the irony -
you, child of love, Whose death heaped dark agonies upon those who carried you In wombs of brilliant expectation, preparing for birth, for life.
Came death.
So, yet unfulfilled,
our minds seek respite.
Who are you,
child of Compassionate Friends?
The voice is your child's,
my child's.
It falls recognized on the ears of its mothers, its fathers And softly, lovingly, knowing our pain and doubt
As once it knew our touch, or joy, our tears, it now knows Our need for meaning in the meaningless,
joy in the pain
And it replies, reassuring,
"I am your child . . .
and your child."
I was but weeks from conception,
but days from birth.
My birthdays were few.
My birthdays were many.
I am your baby. Your child.
Your son, Your daughter;
child, adult.
But no age of fruition;
each age not enough.
All ages with hopes unrealized,
goals unachieved, love unexpressed,
Potential unreached, paths undetermined.
I died too soon.

My death: accident . . . illness . . .
sudden . . . predicted . . .
at home . . . nearby . . . distant.
You were with me . . . I was alone but knew your loving presence.
I have watched you live it,
relive it,
again . . . again.
I have seen the fear, the guilt,
the longing, the depression,
The anger, the hope, the valleys,
and later, the hilltops.
No mountains here,
And question, always unanswered, always repeated.
Could I have removed the anguish,
the unrelenting ache
That bespoke my loss,
I would, and more:
I would restore . . . oh, I would drench you in my love again, Surround you with my laughter, enrich you with the fulfillment's and pleasures
My long life would have brought you - You whose own lives would have been freely given to spare mine.
Yet, given no choice there,
you found another . . .
You committed your lives
to others like you:
Those mothers and fathers with whose offspring I dwell Whose children are my family as their parents are now yours.
United, we wait for you . . .
not anxious, but joyful,
for we live in beauty Feeling, here, the warmth of your love shared, your hope shared.
We are "the child,"
the unification of your loss:
A child of love manifested in your compassion, a child alive in your choice to go on . . . together.
